6 COMMERCIAL
WIND TURBINES
ARE PROPOSED
FOR 2 RESIDENTIAL AREAS OF COLEBROOK.
EACH TURBINE IS TALLER THAN
A 40-STORY BUILDING –
UP TO 492 FEET!

The State of Connecticut and many towns, including Colebrook, do not have regulations about wind turbines in residential areas. There are no established setbacks from your home, property lines, roads or wetlands. Wind turbines are noisy and the sound travels over a mile. They can be seen from several miles away, and can affect health, property values, and the environment.

The company proposing the turbines claims that the Connecticut Siting Council, rather than our town's regulatory boards, has ultimate approval of applications.

The State and all towns need time to adopt regulations, and the people of our town and across the state deserve to be heard on this issue.

Join us in calling on the Connecticut Siting Council for a moratorium and a public hearing.
