PETITION REGARDING
6 COMMERCIAL WIND TURBINES PROPOSED FOR 2 RESIDENTIAL AREAS OF COLEBROOK

The State of Connecticut and most towns, including Colebrook, do not have regulations about wind turbines in residential areas. There are no established setbacks from your home, your property line, or from roads and wetlands. Wind turbines are noisy and the sound travels over a mile. Those proposed for Colebrook will be as high as a 40-story building, and can affect health, property values, and the environment.

Both the State and towns need time to develop regulations about commercial wind turbines. The Colebrook applications are now before the Connecticut Siting Council (www.ct.gov/csc) and deserve a public hearing. We support a moratorium on any decisions placing them in residential areas until the issue is thoroughly studied.
